4-15 August 2025

Geneva, Switzerland

This eye-opening course delved into key areas like female leadership, peacebuilding, and navigating global structures to foster a more peaceful and equitable world. What made this experience truly special were the incredible women I connected with—each bringing their own expertise and perspectives from diverse local contexts.

FAQs

1. How much time will be spent on each track of the She Leads for Peace Summer School?

While the tracks of the She Leads for Peace Summer School will overlap and build on one another, the approximate breakdown is as follows:

Track one: Effective Leadership – 50%

The effective leadership component of the She Leads for Peace programme, connects elements of inner development with outer contributions, in both personal as well as professional capacities of participants. This track will be a personal leadership journey for each participant supporting them in their growth as leaders.

Track two: Learning from Trailblazers – 30%

A key component of the summer school programme will be interactions with women leaders who have walked similar paths. This intergenerational aspect will be an opportunity for participants to learn from women with real life experience navigating a career in the peace and security field.

Track Three: Tips, Tricks and Navigating Early Career Hurdles in the world of International Organizations – 20%

Through meetings with different organizations within International Geneva, from the peace, security and humanitarian sectors, participants will be better placed to situate their passions in the broader peace and security field.

2. How much professional experience should I have to participate in the programme?

The She Leads for Peace Summer School is designed for women transitioning out of academic life into professional life. Therefore, it is recommended participants have 0-3 years professional experience.

3. Where will I be staying during the programme?

Accommodation is not included in the cost of the course. Participants are responsible for booking their own accommodation. Upon request, UNITAR will provide a list of suggested hotels and hostels for participants to reference.

4. Are there any scholarships available?

Unfortunately, at this moment UNITAR is unable to offer any scholarships for the programme. We hope to be able to provide them in the future. Should they become available, scholarship opportunities will be published on the event page.

5. I will need a letter to support my visa application for Switzerland, will UNITAR provide one?

Yes, UNITAR will provide a visa support letter. Applicants are responsible for the visa application process. In exceptional cases UNITAR can support with the visa application process. This needs to be discussed on a case-by-case basis.
